Title: A DREAM COME TRUE

'Wing Attack, WATCH OUT!' exclaimed the coach. As I endeavoured to figure out the danger that had found me, I found myself screaming dreadfully with agony. With blurred eyesight and my right leg in a cast hanging on a sling, I lay in the hospital bed. Besides being under care, I felt rather hopeless than relieved. After months of training just to be part of the school netball team, I couldn't let my dream go down the drain just like that, never! I was bedridden but that never stopped me from learning. I was back on track, or should I say, on court. The try-outs for the team arrived, and what seemed to be the end was just the beginning...
