As ordinary 11 year old Tilly woke up she found herself in a beautiful place, while looking around her she saw amazing creatures and plants. She saw elephants: tremendously big, majestic and regal they marched across the horizon trumpeting along, the monkeys hanging on the branches of a acacia tree teasing each other, the giraffes with their long neck and legs sipping from the water hole while the hippos sunbathed. The kingfishers were diving to catch their dinner and the king of them all: the Lion, his long shaggy mane, his powerful and muscled body was standing alongside his lioness on a ginormous rock. As the go-away bird called Tilly thought "This is a dream come true".

It was all a dream
