A Dream Come True

One hot day, a young elephant went running to the watering hole. He started spraying himself with water and rolling in the mud. When he got out, he threw sand on himself just like elephants do. But he heard a strange noise that sounded far off and not like any animals he had ever heard before! He followed the sound until he got to a cave. He saw a small human child crying all alone. What should he do?! That brave elephant used his mighty trunk and placed the child on his back. He took him to the closest safari truck that helped him. Without realizing it then, that young elephant's dreams came true because he just saved a life.
