

Name: Praise Mubayi

Age: 15 years

Word count: 398

Telephone Number: 0772984373

School: St Dominics Chishawasha Secondary School.

Title: A STRANGER I MET

Whilst minding my own business, admiring a sea of latest phones someone decided to disturb me.

“Are you lost little girl,” said a crusty cold voice behind me. I turned around, and found myself staring at a creepy obsolete guy, bent into a shape of a question mark.

One thing was clear he was no good Samaritan.

He had a dark evil glare in his eyes, his skin was prickly, and his face screamed death. He had a wide trilled nose that threatened to suck all the air off the world, you could barely see his old lonesome face from the dark scars painting his eyes. Suddenly an epiphany hit me, I was staring in the eyes of the devil himself.

Hope he wasn't going to eat me, I thought.

“Where are your parents?” whispered the old man, his breath piercing through my lungs.

God! Has this man ever heard of a toothbrush. I don't think so judging by the look of his yellow, disgusting teeth it looks like he's lived for centuries without being introduced to one. I smiled and said, “I'm not lost, just shopping.”

“Well child, as you can see, I'm very hungry and I haven't eaten for days, but if I eat you no one will ever know.” He smiled wickedly.

HE EATS PEOPLE, I WONDERED!

OOOH M G! I talk to strangers once and I'm already dinner tonight. This is exactly how Snow white died by trusting OLD PEOPLE! Now I'm going to end up like her except I don't have a prince to wake me up from the dead.

I watched in complete horror as he sneaked his hand in his coat.

Before I knew what was happening, I sprang into action. I was running for my life.

People stared as if I had lost my mind. Maybe they thought I was throwing one of those teenage tantrums. Every step that I took was like a countdown to my death.

Just when I thought luck was on my side I fell, face down on the ground and my whole life flashed before my eyes. The old man raised his hand in the air, then he handed me a $10 bill I had dropped. In my confusion I then heard a distant voice calling me..... "Wake up its time for school!"

From this dream I learnt never to judge other people.

THE END...