A dream come true

Chishamiso's family was poor she had to stop school despite being bright. "Dreams are free Chisha you can be whoever you want despite the current circumstance" her mother would always say. Against all odds her dream was to be a doctor . One day she heard about scholarships for disadvantaged students in her village. She leaped with joy knowing that getting the scholarship would be one step closer to her dream. She immediately dragged her mother to the district office to do the application. She couldn't believe it, she was already shortlisted by her old teacher. Mother and daughter cried tears of joy. As we speak Chishamiso is one year away finishing her doctor's degree and wants to serve her village.
