

The Adventure that I never expected

One day I woke up. I went to brush my teeth but I could not reach the sink. I sensed that something was suspicious. I went to look in my sister's mirror. I screamed in horror.

I WAS AN ANT! I went outside of the village, and soon I reached the ant fortress. I had to stay there for the night. They wanted to destroy humans. So I asked, "Why do you want to destroy humans?" "Because they always step on us," they replied. "Then why don't you stop biting," I said. That was the best idea.

The humans and ants became best friends. I was known as the ant king.
